At this time, there is a small queue of approximately 12 customers. Doormen admit the customers. Music can be heard from within Peaches though is drowned out by passing traffic. Doors are kept closed.

02 – 2310 Our operative enters Peaches and is asked to show Identification which is closely looked at and scanned and is then admitted.

Music is loud inside with hip-hop and R&B being played. The music has a heavy bass line. Our operative does not hear any speaking on the microphone tonight.

Our operative observes no direct sales of spirits in bottles however drinks are being sold in pint glasses, and spirits look to be poured into glasses for example vodka and coke will be served in a small glass. Beer is observed being sold in bottles.

Our operative is sold a pint of beer in a glass.

Note: The bar is extremely busy at this time. Our operative is being monitored by a manager and a doorman. He pays in cash - £3.60 - and despite requesting a receipt, the barmaid does not provide one and continues serving other customers.

Our operative was not asked for identification at the bar. However, this is done on entry to the bar. There appears to be a 'no identification, no entry' policy in place.
