Please see answers to your questions below.

I am afraid my ability to answer fully is limited given I am only an individual stallholder and many of the questions seem more relevant to the wider operation of the event rather than an individual stallholder

Good afternoon James,

Brent council have sent your TEN through to me and I have a few questions regarding the sale of alcohol at this function.

Which section of the park are you planning on using? Will you be segregating any part of the park off?

We will be allocated a small pitch (9m x 9m) within the park. This pitch is normally assigned to us a week or two before the event. So at this stage I am unable to comment on where we will be sited.

Do you have a map detailing the area?

No. This would need to be provided by the event organisers as they assign all stall pitches

Are you using the café situated in the park?

No

Are there any personal license holders attending to supervise the sale of alcohol?

No

There is a Public Space Protection Order (PSPO) which prohibits the consumption of alcohol in the Borough of Brent. My understanding is this venue is owned by the City of London, but once anyone leaves the park (with & consuming alcohol) they would walk into the PSPO. What measures have you taken to make sure the PSPO is upheld?

I would suggest this is a question for the event organisers

Will you have security at this event?

Unable to comment – this would need to be a question directed to the event organisers. There has been a light police presence in previous years

Can you elaborate more on what the community event is please?

This is a family event that has taken place in the park at Queens Park every year, for 40 years. It is largely food stalls along with entertainment (music, dog/animal shows, some kids fun fair rides.

What alcohol are you planning on selling? Beer/wine/spirits/cocktails etc?

Only beer, wine, pimm's and soft drinks (no other spirits or cocktails)

Have you hosted events like this before?

I owned and operated 3 bars in London, I also owned a catering and events business and I have successfully held a licence to supply alcohol at this event every year (bar COVID) since 2004

Who is invited to this event? Will it be advertised?

Local residents. Advertising is local only and as far as I am aware only extends to some banners on the railings at the park.

Is there an event management plan for this event?

This would be supplied by event organisers

Thank you for your assistance,

Phil

CC Brent – I have my concerns over this TEN, with no mention of a PLH or reference to any of the licensing objectives. Please treat this e-mail as holding reps pending a response from Mr McDowell.
