Dear Brent Council,

I saw the blue sign outside tiger bay and want to provide representation
Im a regular at Tigerbay. I work as a reservation agent, and it's one of the places I often meet clients it's a calm, stylish space where people feel comfortable, and that really matters in my line of work.

Over the years, I've spent a lot of time there, both professionally and personally, and I've always been impressed by how well it's run. The staff are polite, attentive, and always make the effort to keep the atmosphere relaxed and respectful. Even when it's busy, the environment never feels out of control. There's a sense of order and safety that's not easy to come by in venues these days.

From the moment you walk in, it's clear that the team take pride in the way they manage the place. I've seen how they quietly keep things moving, how they deal with larger groups with care, and how they make sure guests are treated kindly. I've never had a reason to feel uneasy or unsafe there, and that's exactly why I trust it as a place to bring clients.

The area around the venue is also kept clean and quiet, which shows the team's respect for the neighbourhood. There's no lingering noise late at night, no trouble outside — it's honestly one of the more responsible places I've been to in London. It's clear they've worked hard to create a space that blends into the local community rather than disrupt it.

Tigerbay has become a familiar part of my routine, and it plays a bigger role than people might realise. It supports local jobs, gives people a safe and welcoming place to meet, and offers something positive for the area. I really hope the Council sees the value it brings and continues to support it.
