Dear Brent Council,

I'm a long-standing resident of Kingsbury. I've lived here for 36 years and currently run a tutoring business in the local area. I also live very close to Tigerbay, which has become an important part of my daily life.

I'm writing to express my full support for Tigerbay and to share just how much it means to me — and to many others in the community.

I struggle with my mental health, and Tigerbay is one of the few places where I truly feel at ease. It's not just a café or shisha lounge — it's a place that brings people together. After long and often difficult days, it gives me somewhere to unwind, spend time with friends, and feel part of something. The atmosphere is calm, the staff are always friendly, and I've built real connections with people there — staff and regulars alike.

For someone like me, who doesn't always find it easy to be out and social, Tigerbay provides a rare and valuable space. It gives me a reason to leave the house, a place where I'm welcomed and not judged — and that has made a huge difference to my mental wellbeing.

If this space were taken away, it would be more than just the loss of a local business. It would mean losing the one place I can go to feel connected, safe, and uplifted. Tigerbay plays a vital role not just economically, but emotionally and socially — and I know I'm not the only one who feels this way.

Please support its continued operation. It genuinely matters.

Kind regards,
