

Dear Linda,

Thank you for your email.

I can confirm that I am not withdrawing my representation. My concerns remain unchanged, particularly regarding the long history associated with this premises and the potential risk to my wife and myself if my identity becomes known.

I have reviewed the documents provided by the applicant's representative. While I appreciate the information, the content consists of proposed conditions and general assurances. It does not provide any independent evidence regarding the operator's track record, police history, or the past incidents at this location. As such, the documents do not address the personal safety concerns I previously raised as a long-term neighbouring resident.
