I strongly object to this proposal of a new gaming centre at 1 Walm Lane - this area is already being saturated by gaming centres and what we are seeing locally is an increase in people with addictive behaviours on the high street. I have 4 children and they feel increasingly unsafe in Willesden Green especially around the high street. They have been approached for money, they walk past people openly injecting drugs and a huge number of homeless people around the station make it very hard for them to walk past without being asked for money. A new gaming centre will most certainly make this situation worse not better. I am imploring you to consider the needs of young people within Willesden Green. We should be trying to make the area better for the sake of the whole community - not bringing it down.
